

SPRING VALLEY TOMATO grower Howard Takahashi stands amidst dead crop. Before the Jan. 13-14 cold spell hit, the plants had been growing as high as his shoulders. The cold wiped out a $20,000 crop flourishing on the hills near Sweetwater Springs Blvd. The grower and his men worked through Sunday night burning fires to save the tomatoes. The 18-degree sub-freezing air won out. Plants, shrubs and trees throughout Spring Valley and Lemon Grove took a beating from the "black frost." For story and more pictures, turn to page 2.

Penny Stamps In Short Supply In Lemon Grove

There were no one-cent stamps early this week at the Lemon Grove post office.

Frenchy Faucher, L.G. Postmaster said that the office's 70,000 supply had run out.

Early last week the new 5c postage rate became effective and there was a run on one-centers to combine with four-centers to make good the new rate.

A new 70,000 supply was due in Monday but an accident in the north delayed the delivery.

Faucher said that he expected to have all the stamps needed by the time the news item was read.

L.G. Experiences 25-Degree Cold

Chosen at the same time was Paul Beerman, a S.D. engineer. Both men serve on the board of directors of the County Water Authority, positions they will retain. CWA now has four directors among the 35 directors on MWD.

The two vacancies were created by a resignation and an increase in the district's assessed valuation. Two other CWA representatives are Fred Heilbron, CWA chairman and Hans Doe, of Vista, CWA secretary. The appointments were made by Heilbron who said the four directors represented the greatest number of CWA people ever to serve on the MWD board. Griffen, who lives at 8305 Alton dr., L.G. is chairman and (Continued on Page 4)

Trustees Give 'Green Light' To Over-Ride Vote Plans

The L.G. school board discussed ways and means Monday night for getting information to the public for the tax over-ride election scheduled to be held Tuesday March 5. Successful passage of the issue would increase the district tax from $1.66 to $1.99 for each $100 of assessed property value. Trustees were told that 220 parents of elementary school students had been identified and registered during the holidays. Additionally, groups were planning to make door-to-door visits to homes in the community to inform voters of the importance of passing the over-ride issue. "We simply can't get away from adjusting teachers' salaries any longer," Byron Netzel, district superintendent said. "We're $250 (a year) under other districts and $500 under the state average, and other districts are taking our qualified teachers," he told the Board.

L.G. FAMILY INCOME HIGHEST IN EAST COUNTY SAYS BANKER

Members of the L.G. Men's club discussed the possibility of uplifting the shopping traffic flow in Lemon Grove Friday.

They were in agreement that one way to start a movement of shop-at-home would be for individual merchants to practice that preaching and make their own purchases in their own community. "Then invite the residents to come to shop by way of regular advertising," they said.

Another element would be to practice and teach employees to smile and be courteous.

Jim Spears, club president said the group would ask the L.G. chamber of commerce to work on a shop-at-home-and-smile program.

Following the discussion the club heard Edward J. Burt, newly appointed assistant manager of the First National Bank discussing the economic outlook for Lemon Grove and the nation.

He said that family income for Lemon Grove residents was $7,337 last year, the highest of any east county community.

"What's more, it's a stable, middle-aged group with many of its debts paid. That means the community has a viable shopping potential," he said. "Lemon Grove should be the most thriving community in the east county right now," he added.

The community had an 11.1% vacancy factor compared with the county's 11.5%, he said.

Lemon Grove produces sales and use tax at the rate of more than $3,000 a quarter, he pointed out.

The fact that the community has become the home of three major banks and a large savings and loan firm indicates that there is a strong economic future here and business firms

Co. Sups. Knock Sheriff's Son Appointment; Reject Wage Change

SAN DIEGO (CNS)—Sheriff Joseph O'Connor's 21-year-old son is unqualified to serve as his father's aid and should not be on the county payroll, the Board of Supervisors decided Tuesday by a three-to-two vote. O'Connor, who took office Jan. 7, appealed to the board to pass an amendment to the salary ordinance, to allow him to pay his son Michael at the rate of $507 per month, compared with the $9,000 per year presently allowed.

The sheriff has the right to hire three special investigators or deputies, but the law puts their salary at $9,000 annually. O'Connor's hiring of his son has been under fire, due to the $9,000 reportedly to be paid the youth. But O'Connor has stated he only meant his boy to be paid the same as any other new deputy.

Supervisors divided hotly on the change of pay issue, even though they were told they have no right to pass on the qualifications of any of the "unclassified" employees that the county charter gives the district attorney and the sheriff the power to hire.

Supervisor David W. Bird made a motion to approve O'Connor's request. There was a long silence.

"There's been a lot of public indignation about this whole thing," said Supervisor Frank A. Gibson. "It's too bad, if the sheriff wanted this reclassified, that he didn't ask the board to do it before he appointed his son. He should have done it before his son went on television and said he was going to get $9,000 per year."

"And what about the morale of the other 5,700 county employees?" asked Sup. Austin.

Bird said the only thing that was before Supervisors was setting the salary of a deputy sheriff, and Gibson asked why the youth did not take a civil service examination.

"He doesn't have to," said

Bird. He added that a number of deputies had not taken civil service tests. "Some of them did not qualify because of age,"

"The people were right in expressing indignation over this unqualified appointment," said Sup. Dent.

"A change would be a little ridiculous to satisfy the needs of one man," added Austin.

The vote to approve the salary change was defeated, with Cozens and Bird voting for it and Dent, Gibson and Austin voting against it.

O'Connor said later Tuesday he was not sure what he would do, or whether his son would now accept the appointment.

The need for funds in the Welfare organization is great reported Mrs. Thelma Lewis, of Spring Valley, in charge of the aid to needy family program.

"Not only do we need funds, food and clothing, but we need jobs for our unfortunate unemployed folk," she said.

One family, desperate for work, wants to do clean-up or lawn work, tree-trimming, garden work or any kind of labor, she said. She issued a plea for help for the family. "We can supply food staples but these people need the kind of assistance that only earning a living can give," she said.

Street Lights Need Accentuated

The other night Mrs. Frank Zavodnik, mother of two teenagers, returned from work near midnight and put her car in the garage of her home at 7035 Rosemary ln., L.G.

While she was pulling down the garage door, a young man grabbed her and wrestled loose her purse, scooped up $135 and fled.

Luckily her assailant was not more vengeful or she would have suffered physical injury as well as financial loss.

If the assailant had been a sexual psychopath the woman may have been forced to suffer additional indignities.

Why was the robbery perpetrated on Rosemary lane? Why was it done in this community at all? Certainly not because of the lack of police protection because the sheriff's sub-station has police officers wheeling in and out of Lemon Grove all night.

Police authorities say that such crimes as the one on Rosemary lane would be reduced if there were street lights. Robbery, malicious mischief, rape and burglaries are discouraged by the gleam of an overhead light. The fear of positive identification frightens criminals out of the notion.

Grossmont Trustees To Hold-the-Line On School Staff Policy

In approving a statement for the budget developed for the school year 1963-64, Grossmont high school district trustees on January 14 adopted a hold-the-line policy. Continuation of the school staffing policy which has been in effect this year was approved. Among the policies are a 31-1 allocation of teaching personnel for the regular schools and 18-1 for the Continuation and the EMR programs, and basic staffs for the individual schools. The basic staff includes principal, vice principal, four counselors, librarian, nurse, and a part-time associated student body advisers and vocational counselors. The classified staff for each school numbers 11, plus custodians and grounds-men who are allocated according to an established formula. Large schools over 1700 enrollment get additional amounts for certificated or classified personnel. The supplemental total is $3000 for 1800 to $20,780 for 2400 enrollment. The Board gave approval to standard lists of instructional equipment and supplies while deleting from it one orchestral instrument, a contra bass clarinet considered to be excessive in cost.

The Board also approved new courses for 1963 summer school and 1963-64 regular session. Among courses approved for summer school is a science technical writing and history course open to advanced science students from all schools of the District. Advanced mathematics and social science students will be able to take a course emphasizing the mathematics of probability and statistics. This course will feature use of visiting statisticians and mathematicians coordinated by the regular teacher. A reading clinic involving use of master teachers and aides and coordinated by Dr. Claude Shouse of S.D. State College is scheduled. A field course in biology is available for students completing biology with a superior grade. It will stress individual projects, and will involve field investigation.

Among the new courses for the 1963-64 regular school year will be an industrial math course now being offered at Mt. Miguel to be extended to El Cajon Valley and El Capitan High Schools, and a course in consumer mathematics and business arithmetic now in operation in two schools to be extended to all schools of the District. A present three semester algebra program for students having trouble in math will be continued at Grossmont and El Capitan.

PLANT LOSS RUNS INTO THOUSANDS

Spring Valley-Lemon Grove Area Nipped By Sub-Freezing Weather

Spring Valley's tomato crop was nearly a total loss and local nurseries reported a loss of up to 80 per cent of their stock as a result of the sub-freezing cold wave that hit the Lemon Grove-Spring Valley area on Sunday night.

Temperatures dropped lower than they had since 1948. Parts of Spring Valley got as cold as 18 degrees. Lemon Grove reported a low of 25.

Nearly all residents in the area lost plants growing in their yards. Plants known as "tropical" and "ornamental" were those which perished.

Some 35 acres of Spring Valley tomatoes almost ready to be picked perished in the chill. Grower Howard Takahashi whose acreage is in northeastern Spring Valley in the hills by Monte Vista High School

Valleyite Ranks Five In U.S. Copper Craft Selling Competition

A Spring Valley woman, Mrs. Eleanor Vorman of 3174 Central ave. who has been selling for a coppercraft firm for 3½ years, came in fifth in the company's nationwide contest held between August and the middle of October.

Mrs. Vorman received a copper crown, a brass sceptre, a 20-inch trophy and a $100 U. S. Savings Bond from Coppercraft Guild, a relatively new company that employs 3,000 women nationally.

Selling is done through shows in private homes when the copper decorative and serving pieces are on display. Mrs. Vorman sold $3,500 (salesladies keep 28 per cent) worth of copper pieces during the contest period and she was named "Queen of Westland" during the firm's award banquet held during Christmas. The title means she sold most in western U. S.

Mrs. Vorman is a native of Dubuque, Ia. She and her husband have been in California about nine years. They have children of ages 8, 11 and 12.

Women who put on the copper home shows are called "counselors." Mrs. Vorman said that about 3½ years ago a friend who was a counselor called her one morning and told her, "I've recommended you for the position of copper counselor."

"A what?" asked Mrs. Vorman, who since has become a "queen" among counselors.

kinds soared into the thousands of dollars. Hunter's Nursery in S.V. commented that people in recent years had been "getting brave" about using warm weather plants and that they'll be more cautious about them. The nursery said that the "black frost" is so-called because the cold is extreme enough to turn plants black.

Lose 80 Per Cent
Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cisco, who operate Cisco's Nursery in S.V. said they lost about 80 per cent of the stock. Two hundred fuschia plants were among their loss. Mrs. Cisco said she believes people will turn away now from using so many delicate plants. "They have been wanting to know what plants didn't freeze," she said.

Lose Five Acres
The Muaki Brothers, tomato growers on Sweetwater rd. reported that the low temperatures ruined five acres of their crop. But much of their acreage had been picked.

Little damage to citrus was reported in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley. The County Farm Advisor's office said that the sugar content of the maturing fruit served to resist cold.

Takahashi said that he had 12 men working all night in a futile attempt to save the tomato crops. They burned a thousand old auto tires and used a wind machine to combat the weather grip but to no avail, he reported. Many of the plants were in full production. Even young plants under "caps" were destroyed. Damage to plants of many

Roy Madsen of Madsen's Nursery reported a loss of from 75-80 per cent of his stock. He has been in business eight years and this was the worst cold of his experience. He said he would probably handle fewer of the type of plants easily affected by cold. He recommended that people leave plants alone for about 10 days before cutting them back.

Jasmines, hibiscus, honeysuckle, poinsettias, lilies, bird of paradise, vines, cacti and ferns were among plants hardest hit by the unusually cold weather.

A NURSERYMAN FOR 17 years with Hunter's Nursery in Spring Valley, Morris Nunez of 9221 Cathay circle had never seen a freeze before like that which occurred on the night of Sunday, Jan. 13. The one in 1948 was not quite as bad he said.

Trustees Give Green Light To Plans For Over-Ride Vote

Since then, not only have there been no increases, but there has been no capital outlay for replacement of equipment and teaching supplies because of lack of funds, Netzel pointed out.

The election, if successful, will provide a little more than $100,000 a year for school needs. Last year, according to Netzel, $90,000 was lopped from the budget. This did not include teachers' raises which were not budgeted.

The summer school program was put together with "economic spit and hairpins" last year but the summer program is at stake in this election, Netzel said.

In addition to the loss of good teachers and the summer program, the Palm Jr. high program, yet to be brought to the L.G. Jr. high level would continue to sag.

"The foreign language program, mandatory here in 1964-65 must be started this year if we expect the students to measure up to state requirements," he said.

Trustees approved all plans and told him to proceed to do the things that would make the election successful.

Neighbors Block Bid For Variance By Auto Shop

SAN DIEGO (CNS)—A zone change to provide a parking area for a Lemon Grove auto supply store ran into a roadblock for the second time, at the Friday session of the County Planning Commission.

Ervin Major applied to the commission for "P" zoning, which reserves a piece of land for parking, for property at the rear of 7558 Pacific Ave. This property is adjacent to land that Major owns on Broadway, where he has his auto supply store.

The Pacific avenue land is now zoned for apartments, and Major's proposal to use it for parking was protested by Dr.

She and her husband are active in the Church of Brethren where they are chairmen of deacons. She has been president of the church's Women's Fellowship for two years. She also taught Sunday school and aided in vacation church school.

For these, and other services, the award was made to her Wednesday evening at a colorful ceremony at L.G.'s Mt. Vernon school.

Protests Kill Bid For Rest Home Variance

SAN DIEGO (CNS)—The bitter protests of owners of adjacent property Friday killed a Lemon Grove property owner's request to operate a rest home.

The applicant was Theodore H. Williams. He asked the county for a special permit for 6735 Alamo Way. The commission committee had recommended that his request be granted.

But neighbors appeared in numbers at the commission hearing to object.

V. J. Dorman, attorney for those objecting to the rest home, told the commission that the enterprise would depreciate property values in the area.

Others who spoke against the permit were H. J. Driscoll and Helen A. Jensen.

On a sheet circulated for opponents to sign, the following registered objections, as the planning staff deciphered their signatures: Mary Lonu Diball, Lyle J. Bucton, Erma M. Long, Elsie Lee Williams, Ralph B. and Corrine Ballou, Charles Moon, D. O. and Bonita Riley and Lyman S. and Pauline Baird.

Williams has the right to appeal.

Education is an expensive process but costs less than ignorance.

The lawyer declared that the area is now being used by Major for other purposes than parking, including work on cars.

He said the change of zone would permit a commercial intrusion into a residential area. Katz also said that cars and trucks using the area in question are reaching it by a driveway from Pacific avenue, so that the whole depth of the lot is being put to another use than the zoning permits.

Robert G. Berrey, assistant county counsel, said parking zoning requires a six-foot fence around three sides of any area thus zoned.

Harry Ashfield, attorney for Major, said his client would erect a fence around the property. He also denied that the area is question is being used for anything but the parking of cars.

Commissioner Gilbert Ray declared that the area will probably eventually be rezoned for commercial use. He pointed out that the land along Broadway is now zoned for "C2" and that a parking area would be better than what most property owners look out at now.

This was supported by Mrs. Helen P. Lenox. She said that she had circulated a petition in Major's behalf, because the parking area is better to look out at from her apartment than other enterprises.

Major said he needed the parking area because of space taken away when Broadway was widened. The commission put off a decision until Jan. 25.

The girl died Sunday. Rev. Jordan Detzer of L.G. Methodist Church officiated at the funeral.

The attack on Mrs. Zavodnik as well as other serious crimes reminds us that the chamber of commerce light program has bogged down. Petition passers, probably waiting further instructions, may have stopped work. PTA groups, church organizations and members of the residential community had expressed a determination to have street lights installed.

We urge the petition passers to complete their mission and contact the chamber within a week so that the project can be put together by the middle of next month.

Mrs. Zavodnik's own words give access to the need of street lights when she told our reporter: "When he grabbed me the first thought I had was that this couldn't be happening if we had lights."

Mrs. Zavodnik is not a drone. She had circulated a petition in her neighborhood. She warns that the dark makes more such criminal forays attractive.

Let's make the glare of street lights a deterrent to crime in Lemon Grove by completing the petition signing right away.

Tax Returns Can Backfire

That dirty bird in Washington who heads up the Internal Revenue Service means business this year.

IRS Director Mortimer Caplin has announced a new, tighter set of rules by which all namby-pamby stuff is going to be held suspect if not viewed as intentional dishonesty.

In fewer words, your tax return shall reflect the conditions as they actually are, and not with a slight coloration of too many deductions, too high expenses, or improperly accounted for dependents.

Because federal income tax return forms become more complicated with changes, more and more hapless taxpayers trek to income tax "experts" for aid in preparing their annual returns.

From our own good Better Business Bureau comes the sagest bit of advice we could hope for. It warns that owners of small businesses and family head taxpayers should be aware of the hazards of engaging unknown persons to prepare their tax returns.

It is of prime importance that the taxpayer find out, in advance, the qualifications and reliability of those he intends to engage to prepare a tax return.

Revenue laws hold the taxpayer, not the persons who prepared the return, responsible for the statements therein.

A very important consideration might be your ability to locate the person who prepared your tax return AFTER April 15.

Administration Protests Grow

Walter Winchell said the other day that up-side-down stamps on mail is rumored to be a GOP protest against the goings-on of the JFK Administration but Congressman Jim Utt has a better device.

It is House Joint Resolution 23 (Liberty Amendment to the Constitution).

1. cut government costs in half
2. restore state sovereignty
3. insure balanced budgets
4. control bureaucracy
5. protect private enterprise, and
6. repeal personal income taxes.

It seems strange that we would have to legislate to re-acquire our Constitutional rights in a democracy.

Planning Commish Reduces Demand For Right-of-Way
SAN DIEGO (CNS) — The county needs less rights of way than it first asked for in connection with a Spring Valley zone change, the County Planning Commission was told Friday.

The condition for a change to give commercial zoning for about an acre and a half on Campo rd. just east of Helix street, had been the donation of 20 feet of frontage on Campo, to provide 50 feet of right of way on the south half of the thoroughfare.

But Dr. Willis H. Miller, county planning director, Friday reported to the commission that the road is to have a right of way of only 84 feet, not the 100 feet first anticipated.

Miller said this would mean landowners would have to give only 12 feet of right of way, instead of the 20 feet demanded at a commission hearing late last year.

The zone change request was made by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond La Fortune, operators of a dog kennel in the area now zoned for single family dwellings.

PLANS SURGING AHEAD

Grossmont College Board Approves Schematic Drawings; Grading Bids Being Accepted

Planning for construction of Grossmont College continued at a rapid pace when the Board of Trustees last week approved schematic drawings for three of the buildings and preliminary plans for the other four units. Authorization was also given for the calling of bids on the grading plans for the site which is located north of Katherine Street on Fletcher Hills.

The schematic drawings as presented by the architect were approved for the student center, the technical curriculum unit, and the physical education building. The preliminary plans were presented for the fine arts unit, administration, library, communications center, and the academic classroom building.

Two alternatives will be submitted for the grading plans. One will include complete grading for the site and the other omits grading of the northerly portions including parking and physical education areas.

Associate Superintendent Harold G. Hughes reported that the sale of the first $2 million of the junior college bonds authorized last September was to the Bank of America and Associates at a relatively favorable interest rate of 3.271%.

In other actions the Board approved faculty committee structure as outlined by President John Hansen, and a statement of philosophy and objectives developed by the Executive Committee.

The Board also approved exploration of the feasibility of the formation of a county junior college athletic conference composed of Grossmont, San Diego City College, San Diego Mesa College, Palomar, Southwestern and possibly Oceanside-Carlsbad. The proposed conference will lead to reduction in travel and concomitant expenses as well as encouragement in natural local rivalries.

Technician Demand Cited
A preliminary report was presented from the technical curriculum advisory committee on development of a program for instrument technicians as a part of the vocational program for the college. John Jensen, chairman of the committee, pointed out the need for technicians for development and repair of the instruments which are in common use in business and industry. The committee has yet to develop the recommendations for final curriculum, but it was indicated it would be heavily oriented toward mathematics and science. One local employer was reported to have said that there was a need for four instrument technicians for each full-fledged engineer while nationally the ratio is now less than one to each engineer. Jensen concluded that the college would be doing a real service to business and industry as well as to those looking for job opportunities by placing emphasis upon the development of this program.
